HATS IN HISTORY

Huey, Dewey, and Louie's history class is not all dates and places. Today, their teacher brought some hats to model to show the change in styles. See if you can identify the hats worn by famous heroes of American history by writing the names of the men listed on the shield under the corresponding hat styles being modeled by the boys and their friends.

SCHOOL PARTY POPE IN BUILD

For a school party that's fun and simple, serve popcorn and punch. It's festive and filling. Make a little red schoolhouse centerpiece to keep the popcorn in as a surprise. You will need a little bell, two boxes, large and small, and cardboard for the roofs. The big roof becomes a lid with the bell tolling in the bell tower at serving time. Follow the diagrams to cut the boxes. Then, measure the roofs with a one inch overhang. Cut, fold, and put the big roof in place and attach the bell tower with glue. Punch two holes in the center fold of the small roof and tie the bell in place. Next, paint the school red and green, with black outlines around the doors and windows. Fill the school with individual bags of popcorn and place it on the party table. Make plenty of fruit punch to serve in paper cups and your party is sure to be a "popping" success!

WHO'S the WEATHERMAN?

He's a lazy little fellow, who's never been to school.

He sleeps all winter long, and then he plays it cool.

If he sees his shadow, he goes on back to snore,

And spring doesn't come for six weeks more!

If he stays up, and goes out to play,

Everybody knows that spring is here to stay.

Fill in the numbered blanks and learn this fellow's name.

The letters that are left will spell his nickname!

HIS REAL NAME IS - 2 4 4 5 6 7 8 5

Could you grow another foot? Twelve inches. that is? Well, we must admit that very few people could grow an entire twelve inches in only a year, but it will be fun to keep a record and see just how far you can grow. First, cut out the two pieces and paste them together. Then, tape or paste the chart to a door frame so that the bottom line is exactly even with your present height. Then, record your present height, along with your weight, under September. At different times throughout the year, mark your height and weight and date it each time. When the school year is over, record your measurements again under June, and figure how much you grew.
